In line with MIC’s Data Retention Schedule, your name and address will be kept on file for 3 months following dispatch of purchase, or until full payment of purchase.
The Curriculum Development Unit (CDU) of Mary Immaculate College, which was established in 1986, is a nationally and internationally recognised centre of excellence in terms of curricular design and innovation. It promotes high standards in teaching and learning by undertaking research into curriculum and methodology in education. This research informs the development of resource materials that are embedded in the latest thinking and ideas about education.

Building Bridges of Understanding

Building Bridges of Understanding is an approach to the development of children’s comprehension which can be applied at all class levels in the primary school. Eight key strategies are identified, namely prediction, visualisation, making connections, questioning, clarifying, determining structure, inferenceing, and summarising. The manual contains detailed instructions on the teaching of each individual strategy and a list of high quality children’s fiction and nonfiction texts that teachers have found particularly appropriate to support the instructional process.

Small Changes Make Big Differences

Small Changes Make Big Differences: Behaviour Management Through the Lens of Special Educational Needs

Written by Dr. Patricia Daly, this new publication is designed to support mainstream teachers to manage behaviour effectively with children with additional needs in their classes. Behaviour is presented through the lens of special educational needs and learning difficulties specifically ADHD, ASD, Dyslexia and MLD/Down syndrome. Using cases, teachers are shown how to observe and audit their teaching and learning environments to identify small changes they can make to manage behaviour and improve teaching and learning. Thirty practical strategies are presented within the framework of the case studies.

Strands

This comprehensive and informative book has been developed by the Department of Special Education at Mary Immaculate College in collaboration with the Special Education Support Service. Drawing on current research and on the experiences of teachers working in both mainstream and special schools, it provides a wealth of practical strategies and suggestions that can be used to enhance teaching and learning for children with Down syndrome and children with general learning disabilities in primary schools and special schools. As the emphasis is on instructional practices that are sensitive to the needs of visual learners, this book will be of interest to primary teachers — already familiar with the primary curriculum who are teaching a wide range of children with special educational needs.
